Joe Hodak makes a special report based on Cry, the Beloved Country, a novel read by academic seniors.

It's What's Happening

Each day consists of many different events. The occurrences of a week are uncountable. Most of a year's happenings escape our memory, but a few remain with us all of our lives, firmly implanted in our minds. What these memories are changes from time to time, but something that never seems to fade is the remembrance of our fads and fashions. "It's what happening" is not only for the action of today, but also for the memories of tomorrow.

This junior English class under the supervision of Mr. Frank Palilla furthers their study of Hamlet by means of oral discussion.

These seniors portray expressions of surprise and bafflement as they receive their report cards from Mr. Richard Donahey, student teacher in homeroom 29.

Students demonstrate an interest in preparing for the next class.

As the race for the Presidency continued, these three major candidates were looked upon with concern by the whole country.

Current Events Take Precedence

Viet Nam fades to an ugly scar in the backs of our minds. Presidential politics and the Olympics seem far removed from our lives. The moon comes closer but looks more fantastic than ever to us. Things are rapidly changing. We are now a part of what is happening in the world.

The Apollo 7, our latest space capsule, endeavored to keep the United States ahead in the space race.

After much campaigning and years of preparation, Richard M. Nixon becomes our 37th President as he solemnly vows to "preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Superior skill in pole vaulting is displayed by Bob Seagren in the 1968 Olympics held in Mexico City, when he wins a gold medal for the United States.

This Newsweek photograph drives home one of the harsh realities of war—United States Marines remove their dead from the field of battle near Khe Sanh.

Above, The newly acquired score board was donated by Marion Center's Booster Club. It is an added attraction for all sports spectators.

Right, Exhibiting with pride their new cheerleader and majorette jackets are Peggy Elder and Pam Peiffer.

Since the school now owns all of the buses used for transportation, an addition of two new bus garages was necessary.

New faculty members include Mr. George Krivonick, Mrs. Eloise McBride, Mr. Bryson Schutte, Mrs. Ann Parow, Miss Carol Duke, and Miss Helen Hastings.

New Additions Greet Students

The changes of the past year have made Marion Center Area School District more modern and progressive. However, a new bus garage and a renovated school bus system is not the only measure of advancement. Efficiency in the operation of the school's facilities and an increased number of educational opportunities for the student gives a more accurate indication of progress.

Practice under the supervision of Mr. Holtz, instructor, helps Bob Bailey and Pat Getty become more careful and courteous drivers.

Varied Activities Challenge Students

Activities in our school range from the commonplace events to the unconventional, such as a boy carving jack-o'-lantern. Hundreds of events similar to these occur in our school during the process of the year and break the routine of one class after another. Other variants are visits from foreign students, various drives, and the excitement of sports.

Left, During Cover's yearly photographic visit to our school, Ray Lee utilizes a few free moments to complete a physics assignment.

Below, Anthony Nanni and Mrs. Stewart stow away dozens of cans for shipment after another successful Honor Society project.

ACADEMICS

Mr. Woodrow Phillipi, supervising principal; Mr. John Mallino, assistant principal; Mr. Graham S. Baskin, high school principal; and

Mr. Bryson Schutte, assistant to the supervising principal in charge of business affairs, confer over administrative matters.

Teamwork Promotes School Efficiency

An education does not just happen, it takes the conscious effort of many people working behind the scenes. The efficiency of our school results from the teamwork of four indispensable people. Mr. Woodrow Phillipi, supervising principal, is our chief school administrator. He supervises all the Marion Center Area schools and the educational system within. Working with him is Mr. Graham Baskin, high school principal. Mr. Baskin supervises the high school and its educational system. Discipline, attendance, and athletics are a few of the responsibilities cared for by Mr. John Mallino, assistant high school principal. A new member of the administration is Mr. Bryson M. Schutte, assistant to the supervising principal in charge of business affairs. Mr. Schutte supervises the school's transportation and general business operations. The co-operation of these four men provides a better functioning school system.

Concentrating on problems within our school system is the main concern of the Marion Center Area School Board. The nine men who form the school board work to provide us with a broader curriculum and adequate school activities. In doing this they hope to develop students into mature individuals. The members of the school board realize that an effective school program is directed toward the common needs of all students, as well as the individual needs of particular students. In providing this program, they must first make certain that suitable buildings, furnishings, transportation, and finally, a faculty is available.

Guidance is a process of helping students to better understand themselves. Mr. Ralph B. Hoover, consultant for the boys, is also director of the Guidance Department. His co-worker, Mrs. Helen Stewart, is the girls' counselor. Together they try to help students in making wise decisions about their present and future years.

Above, Remedial reading helps students to read faster with improved comprehension. Mrs. Eloise R. McBride helps Patty Wetzel correct a "reading for understanding test."

Below, Bob Telk is working at putting his creative genius on paper while writing a theme for Miss Skubis' sophomore English class.

Actions speak louder than words as Miss Helen Hastings displays an expression of disgust during a lecture in her public speaking class.

Self-Expression Cultivates Satisfaction

Since speech and grammar are an important part of communication, all students are required to take six years of English. The first three years are concerned with learning the basic fundamentals of grammar and literature. In conjunction with the essentials, remedial reading and public speaking are offered. S.R.A., a course offered in English classes from seventh through ninth grade, helps students to read with increased speed. But regardless of what phase of English a student engages in, its purpose is to help him to communicate in today's world.

As many a chagrined student knows, not every chemistry experiment meets with success. Sue Gresock and Cindy Fairman are doing their best to see that this one does not suffer such a fate.

Experiments Stimulate Student Interest

Space travel and heart-transplants show only a small portion of the increasing need for science in our everyday lives. Two years of basic science, one year of general science, and one year of biology are required of all students. Those interested in further formal education are given an opportunity to select electives of chemistry, physics, and advanced biology. Science is important for today as well as tomorrow. A better understanding of its background will provide us with the key to the future.

Social Studies Promotes Leaders

In social studies students learn to associate the past with the future. P.O.D., American history, world cultures, Pennsylvania history, and ancient history provide students with the background material essential for a better understanding of other governments, as well as our own. Debates, bulletin boards, and films reviewing past and present events help to enrich each course. The study of history helps students to learn to respect their civic rights and to accept their responsibilities as future citizens.

Below, Supplementing Mr. George Ebert's unit on Public Opinion, was a bulletin board on the Biafra-Nigerian conflict. Janice Eckenrod and Mr. Ebert listen to Peggy Elder's explanation.

Above, Mrs. Helen Dunmire finds the use of a film projector an important asset in her seventh grade history class.

Below, During their study of Russia, students of the tenth grade history class perform a skit protesting government policies.

Below, Concentrated effort is the key to understanding our governmental systems. Barbara Howard and Sharon Frye work diligently to secure an understanding of the judicial system.

Perplexing Problems Challenge Students

Columns of numbers baffle students of the business as well as the math department. One of the major departments of the school, math is being developed more each year. Two years of junior high with additional electives of algebra, plane geometry, trigonometry, analytic geometry, and calculus provide for the needs of the students.

Students finding their way into the commercial world have a broad background in typing, shorthand, business English, and math. Along with this background, skills in the use of office machines are developed.

Above, Proper use of office equipment has been proven essential in the business field. Members of the machines class concentrate on developing their skills with the adding machine.

Below, Many hours of typing practice are required before students can fully master an accurate touch system.

Varied Subjects Produce Skills

Today, in a world where organ transplants are becoming more and more commonplace, a broader knowledge of the human anatomy is becoming increasingly important. As a result, two years of health education are required before a student can graduate.

Closely related to the study of health is physical education. These classes cover such activities as basketball, volleyball, and gymnastics. A newly added feature of the girls' gym classes is modern dancing, and a recent addition to the boys' gym classes is intramural sports, archery, and tennis.

Also required before a student can graduate is driver education theory. Students must complete this course in their sophomore year. Those interested may take the behind the wheel instruction phase of drivers' education.

Right, Practice, practice, practice develops basketball skills, making it possible for Joe Plavi to have a good showing on his test.

Future Jobs Depend Student Training

The courses offered students help to develop them for the future. Three important ones are home economics, industrial arts, and vocational agriculture.

Home economics is an essential part of a feminine education. Practical application aids the development of many homemaking talents. Interested senior high girls may elect to take it to further develop their skills.

Boys interested in preparing for the future may enroll in either the industrial arts or vocational agriculture curriculum. They study the fundamentals of agriculture and of business. This is a period of experimentation in preparation for future employment or occupations.

Above, Dennis Askew watches as Chuck Tonkin and Dan Kirk use the circular saw to cut wood strips.

Cultural Appreciation Is Expressed

Comprising the fine arts department are glee club, girls' chorus, mixed chorus, senior band, cadet band, junior high music, elective arts, and two units of language. One of these, French, is offered three years; and the other, Latin, is offered for two years. Each of the courses provides students with an opportunity to express themselves through their individual aptitudes and to create ideas of their own while studying the works of others. These courses offer students a challenge, both emotionally and intellectually.

Above, Latin projects give students an interesting insight of Roman history. Kathy Myers explains the journey of Aeneas, a hero of Roman mythology.

Everything in the cafeteria is done on a large scale and requires the combined effort of all the workers. Mrs. Mary Doty, Mrs. Margretta Lowman, Mrs. Isabelle Fulmer, and Mrs. Helen Adamson prepare one of our lunches.

Much time is spent in the baking department every day as Mrs. Martha Lingenfelter prepares the baked foods.

Various Groups Maintain Efficiency

Behind the scenes many people assist in providing a smooth running and attractive school plant.

One of these groups is our custodians who work constantly to keep the building in a suitable condition for a wholesome student atmosphere.

A second group consists of our bus drivers who are responsible for the daily student transportation to and from school, as well as after-school activities and recreation.

The bus drivers play a very important role in our everyday school life. They are, Front Row—John Burns, Edward Liszewski, Elizabeth Sink, Norman Kirkland, Raymond Sourwine, John Schall, Paul Black, C. M. Edwards. Second Row—Floyd Edwards, Clair Barbor, Lysle Work, Thomas Beresnyak, Floyd Pennington, Harlan Bowser, Stanley Leczner, Eugene Philippi, Robert Hopkins, Clair Winebark, and Richard Thompson.

A third group is made up of the cafeteria staff. The ladies plan and work daily to provide well-balanced, attractive menus for the faculty and the student body.

A group which is very vital to the administrative area of the school is comprised of the secretaries. Through their efforts records are maintained, bills are paid, schedules are prepared, filing is done, and many other tasks are performed.

Helping to keep our school running efficiently are the office secretaries. They are Mrs. Betty Walker, Mrs. Ruth Steele, Miss Mary Lou Haer, Mrs. Joy Miller, and Mrs. Hazel Yackuboskey.

Student Musicians Put Sparkle Into School Spirit

Under the leadership of the musical director, Mr. Keith Bloom, the Marion Center Senior High Marching Band undertook to instill school spirit into the student body. The band exhibited enthusiasm during varsity basketball games and school pep assemblies. It was also awarded first prize at the Clearfield and Spangler Parades.

Musicians Practice and Entertain

"The followers of Orpheus" make their contribution to the musical talent of the school with chords, crescendos, and an occasional discord. Hours of practice are repaid though with ultimate applause of an appreciative audience.

Gary Heberling, Bob Steffy, Jeff Schilling, and Jerry Smith form the nucleus of the Ninth Grade Boys' Quartet, a newly created, informal singing group.

Enthusiastic Girls Back Activities

The Marion Center Senior Band majorettes were very busy and successful this year. They sponsored the Second Annual Indiana County Majorette Contest, and they placed first at the Sixth Annual Invitational held at the War Memorial in Johnstown. The Cadet Band majorettes proved to be a great help in preparing for both these events.

The drum majorette and the color guards added color and snap to our marching band.

The banner carries and the color guards, consisting of Cheryl Johnston, Colleen Cherry, Bonnie Wetzel, Connie Baker, Robin Ferra, and Sue Sonni, lead the band in parades.

Above, directed by Mrs. Maxine Weller, the members of the ninth grade girls' ensemble are as follows, Kathy Belardelli, Debbie Harbison, Rebecca Wiggins, and Lois Lowry. Above right, The Stingaires, directed by Mrs. Maxine Weller, have participated in many school and outside activities. They are, Jan McQuiston, Shirley Smith, Monica Klyap, Kathy Kinter, Pat Warren, Sara Work, Peggy Elder, Judy Hastings, and Darlene Roof. Left, an added addition to the music department is the Foremost Quartet. They are, B. J. Pino, Jim Johnson, Gary Huber, and Dave Neely.

Singing Groups Display Enthusiasm

The ninth, eleventh, and twelfth grade girls' ensembles are busy this year participating in school assemblies, various programs, and class plays. These girls also express their talents in other school activities, such as musicals and concerts.

The vocally inclined members of the eleventh grade girls' ensemble are, Brenda Dick, Shirley Reiter, Cindy Roof, Joan Romanie, Cindy Fairman, and Carrie Smith.

Honor Society

To achieve the distinction of being a member of Honor Society a 3.5 scholastic rating is required. The members are then rated on service, leadership, and character. Each year Honor Society holds an induction ceremony. At this time students who are inducted are put on probation for one year. If they maintain this standard for a year, they become members. The society is sponsored by Mrs. Helen Stewart.

As one activity Honor Society sponsors an Indian foster child, Billy Proctor. Anthony Nanni and other members listen intently as Sara Work reads a letter from him.

Student Council

Student Council is the governing body of our school. Their activities and weekly meetings combine into a single effort to achieve and to maintain a high standard in our school and among the student body. Sponsored by Mr. Mallino, they form a tie between the students and administration.

Future Teachers

Future Teachers of America, one of the more active organizations of the school, prepares members for a future in teaching. Observing elementary classes and holding panel discussions on student teaching here at Marion Center aid in this objective. One of the more important activities include touring various college campuses such as Penn State. Advisor of F.T.A. is Mr. W. H. Wood.

Historians Club

The newly formed Historians Club has provided its members with many activities. Five members of the organization participated in the Pennsylvania Federation of Junior Historians Convention at Harrisburg where they collected ideas for club projects. Assisting with tours of McCormick's Mansion, with the Marion Center Centennial, and with historical plays which were presented to seventh grade classes were other activities in which the club took part. A field trip to Fort Bedford enabled the students to become better acquainted with Pennsylvania history on a personal basis. Mrs. Marlene Mikesell and Mr. Richard Miller are sponsors of the club.

Advanced Science

The Advanced Science Club was formed to give interested students an opportunity to do research on their own in the field of science that most interests them. Program committees bring in films explaining some aspect of chemistry or physics, or lead discussions on science-related topics. The Club also toured the Chemistry-Physics Planetarium at I.U.P.

Biology Club is a group of senior high students with an interest in the unorthodox, unusual aspects of science. A club of many fresh, new ideas, they have sponsored a Yoruba Cult, as well as a field trip to Pittsburgh, where Phipps Conservatory, Aqua Zoo, and Buhl Planetarium were the main interests.

Senior FHA

Senior high girls, who are interested in developing an appreciation of the joys and satisfaction of homemaking, make up the Senior Chapter of Future Homemakers of America. Each holiday throughout the school year, the members participate in various community service projects; and, as a nationally recognized organization, they attend numerous conventions and conferences. By encouraging the American way of life, the club fosters the development of creative leadership in the home and in the community.

Sophomore Dramatics

Spring is a very busy time each year at Marion Center High as the Sophomore Dramatics Club prepares for "Weary Winter's Wild Windup." Each month the club meets to join in activities, such as learning about the theater, acting, and putting on small skits for their own enjoyment.

Junior FFA

The Junior FFA, an organization to prepare boys in the Junior High for an occupation in agriculture, participates in many county, area, and state contests. These boys also learn the fundamentals of farming, such as, raising livestock and the best methods of planting and harvesting crops.

Yearbook requires not only skill and hard work, but patience, too. With this in mind, Cheri Dahlin writes copy; Cathy Armstrong crops prints; and Mary Shank instructs Sharon Miconi as they work late in order to eliminate a backlog of work.

No really worth while yearbook can be produced without effective pictures of good quality that show what the signs of the times are—whether they freeze a moment or capture the feeling of an entire year.

Drive Pays Off

A 10-11 record marked a season of mixed success for the varsity basketball team. The memory of a 67-65 loss to Indiana in the county Invitational Tournament was more than erased when Marion Center, the only Indiana County team to enter the second stage of District VI playoffs, beat Windber by a seven point margin. The Stingers' drive was stopped short, however, by a tough Curwensville squad.

Skill Spices Rivalry

The Little Stingers produced a season tally similar to the Varsity's 8-10. This freshman-dominated team has a "heads-up" attitude and a spirit that both they and their opponents realize will carry them far.

Hard Work Characterizes Girls' Season

Although our varsity girls' basketball team suffered another losing season, the junior varsity somewhat eased the situation by breaking even with a 3-3 record. The varsity girls did their best to get on a winning course, but tough competition and bad breaks left them to face a 2-5 mark.

Determination Is Displayed

Although Marion Center had many outstanding varsity wrestlers again this year, their 3-11 record left much to be desired. Our team was young, and even if the record failed to show it, our wrestlers gained valuable experience from both losing and winning.

Play Ball!

The Marion Center baseball team finished the regular season with an 8-4 record. On May 23, 1969, they sponsored the first annual baseball tournament at our home field and captured the first place trophy by beating Shannock Valley 9-8 in the first game and shutting out Kiski Prep 3-0 in the last. Three of our players were voted to the All-Star team: Ken Mottorn, shortstop; John Fleck, right fielder; Paul Lingenfelter, pitcher. Paul was also voted the Most Valuable Player of the Tournament.

Ability Proven in Track

This year our track team attended four dual meets, two triangular meets, the county meet at Blairsville, the District 6 meet at Altoona, and the I.U.P. Invitational. The outstanding members of our team were Gary Huber for track, and Chuck Jones for field. Mr. Young and Mr. Krivonick served as coaches.

Senior High Presents "Oklahoma"

The Marion Center Area Music Department presented the third annual musical, Oklahoma, on October 3, 4, and 5. One of the longest running musicals on Broadway, Oklahoma, under the direction of Mrs. Maxine Wellen, was a rousing success. "People Will Say We're in Love," "The Farmer and the Cowman," and, of course, "Oklahoma Finale" were some of the highlights.

Left, "Oh! The Farmer and the Cowman Should be Friends," sings Andrew Carnes as a farmer and cowboy fight in the background.

Below, While in Jud Fry's room, Curly McClain sings a convincing song, "Poor Jud is Daid," encouraging Jud to end his life.

There were "bodies, bodies—everywhere" when the Senior class presented a three-act farce, "Terror in the Suburbs," on October 24 and 25. The play was a great success due to the efforts of the cast, the production crews, and the directors, Mr. Richard Miller and Miss Helen Hastings. The plot centered around the missing body of Rodney Cloud which was hidden in an old Maryland mansion. His murderers, the F.B.I., and other unsuspecting characters clashed as each tried to gain control of the body. Finally, Teresa Drake, "the poor creature," came to the rescue; and the F.B.I. won another case. One of the highlights of the play was Mr. Harrington who choked violently on his tea when he discovered that Theresa Drake had poisoned him.

When Luigi Lanconi returns as a sleepwalker to haunt Mr. Morlock, the frightened Morlock jumps on the davenport. Even though George Plew can't see the ghost, he "plays the game."

Yes, it all happened in one dream! While Mr. Morlock (deceased) converses with Luigi Lanconi (also deceased), Lucifer steps forth to measure Morlock for horns and for a tail before he goes "down." Rest Assured

"Rest Assured," the Junior class play, was directed by Miss Carolyn Barbor. The story centered around Mr. Morlock, a wealthy businessman, who put money before his family. After falling asleep, he entered into a dreamland where he was haunted by the ghost of Luigi Lanconi, his location after death, and the fact that his family had forgotten him. From his nightmare, Mr. Morlock gained a new attitude toward life and toward his family. One of the highlights of the play was a visitation from Lucifer.

The barely awake students look neither "swinging" nor intellectual as they force out "Higher Education."

A "cool" McDuff puts his soul into "Yield Not to Temptation" as his students join in.

Swinging High

"Swinging High," the first Junior High Musical presented by the Marion Center Music Department, proved to be an exciting and entertaining success. The musical, under the direction of Mrs. Maxine Wellen, was about a high school where everything becomes "swinging" when the principal, Mr. McDuff, changes his ideas about education as a result of amnesia. Highlighting the musical were such songs as "Swinging High," "Higher Education," and "Polly Doodle Day."

Student Council Heads Talent Contest

Gifted students displayed their accomplishments in the annual Student Council Talent Contest. The various groups performed in the field of instrumental and vocal music. First place winners of this year's competition were "The Live Performance," a rock-and-roll group. Taking second place with a vocal selection was Lee Sallese. Tim Nichols and Dan Yarnick placed third with several lively songs on the guitar and accordion. The teachers entertained the student body during the program with several skits which featured parodies on the students.

A skit, parodying "My Fair Lady," was presented by some faculty members. At this time they are singing "Get Me to the Class on Time."

Below, Santa Claus, his sleigh, and his reindeer made up a picturesque scene painted on the windows of several homerooms.

Holiday Activities Are Filled With Sparkle

Dancing highlighted a fun-filled evening at the semi-formal.

As the days before Christmas vacation grew fewer in number, Marion Center students and teachers became increasingly exuberant. Visions of decorated trees and jolly Santa Clauses made spirits soar. Plans were laid for such yuletide activities as homeroom parties, dances, and decorations. Music provided by a brass band and by choruses and ensembles rounded out the festivities of the season. A high point of the school events was the "Snowflake Fantasy," which was held in the festively adorned cafeteria. The carefully laid plans for the Christmas celebration made the season an especially enjoyable one.

Happiness Is . . .

One of the most interesting of all our proms was this year's—1969. The theme, "Happiness Is . . .," was carried through with various shades of pink and lavender. The new fountain under the colorful pink and green gazebo added sparkling beauty to the decorations. Illustrating the theme were two murals of Snoopy. An enchanting evening was enjoyed by couples as they danced and socialized.

Above, Ed Griffith and Jeff Fairman work vigorously to finish the new style ceiling made of colorful cheesecloth, an original and different idea for this year's prom. Left, Pattie Cherry adds her personal touch to a paper maché champagne glass that was used to highlight the stage.

One of a seemingly endless number of cheesecloth strips that formed the ceiling is being dried by Randy Wells, Robbie Westover, and Sam Bush.

Prom Becomes a Reality

The entertainment during the prom extended the atmosphere of happiness set by them and the decorations. The Tommy Philips Orchestra provided an enjoyable and memorable evening of dancing for all who attended. Topping off a delightful time was The One Night Stand, a group who entertained at the After-Prom Party.

Below, these couples have an amiable conversation against a background of low lights and soft music.

Above, Taking a few minutes to stop and discuss the decorations are two members of the prom committee, Tina Yackuboskey and Sue Sonni.

Assemblies Maintain Momentum

This year's assemblies proved to be the most interesting of all. Variety seemed to be the theme and variety was certainly sustained. Safety assemblies, Honor Society inductions, dances, musicals, and pep assemblies all attracted the student body's attention. Speakers also informed interested students of military obligations and showed films on various regions. These assemblies provided both entertainment and knowledge for each student.

Following the film "The David Hall Story," Trooper Martin A. Marcus stresses the necessity of safe driving.

Weary Winter's Wild Wind-Up

As signs of spring approached, the National Honor Society sponsored the "Weary Winter's Wild Wind-up" to officially welcome spring and mark the end of the weary winter season. Each club operated a concession of some type to help supply funds for the club and for the enjoyment of their guests. A balloon throw, a penny pitch, a dart throw, a ring toss, a light show, a dance, and a "Laugh-In"—all combined to produce an atmosphere of gaiety. These and other activities contributed to the success of the evening which will be long remembered.

Right, Joe Hodak tries his hand at the Student Council basketball throw while Mr. Mallino supervises.

Youth Trains to Become Instructors

Each semester a group of college students, preparing to become teachers, arrive at Marion Center under the student teaching program. Within this program are many advantages for both the college and the high school student. The student teacher is subjected to realistic classroom situations while the high school student gains new ideas from a teacher nearer his own age.

The senior and cadet band twirlers assembled these giant majorette boots for the Second Annual Indiana Area Majorette Contest which was held here at M.C.

This year the seven students who participated in District Band and District Orchestra are as follows: Jane Work, Bill McMillen, Kathy Myers, Gary Huber, Dave Pollock, Sarah Work, and Monica Klyap.

Awards Make the School Year Special

Success in competition has brought our school many rewards. Our majorettes, who captured first place at last year's First Annual Indiana Area Majorette Contest, hosted this year's event in which Shannock Valley took first place. They were also proud recipients of the first place trophy at the sixth annual Majorette Contest held at the Johnstown War Memorial Arena. Other awards have been conferred on our school through activities such as those of the F.F.A. These awards have helped to make this year special to students, teachers, and visitors.

Marion Center received the two top awards for Livestock Judging at the Indiana County Fair. Winner of the second place trophy was Raymond Martin while Dan Kirk placed first.

The happiness of success is reflected in the smiles of our Senior Band majorettes. Twirling to the strains of "Temptation" and "A Man and a Woman," they placed first at the Majorette Contest at Johnstown. They are, Front Row—Janice Eckenrod, captain; Judy Hastings, co-captain; Carol Glasser, Monica Klyap, and Mary Lezanic. Back Row—Cindy Fairman, Patty Bothell, Cindy Bush, and Pam Peiffer. Freshmen Await New Occurrences

Already, freshmen seem to have left junior high school behind them. More responsibilities and privileges have come into their classes and interfered with their free time. Tests, such as the N.E.D.T., are starting the task of fathoming their interests and abilities. In the high school's life, freshmen have "come of age."

Today's fast dances have evolved into a mixture of music, exercise, and relaxation. "Letting go" with the beat of the day are the freshman class officers Michael Mumau, president; Sandra Miloser, treasurer; Brenda Mumau, secretary; and John Caylor, vice-president.

Sophomore Class

As sophomores sample more and more of school social life, they begin to realize that school is not made "by work alone." Although the years seem to last forever, they are starting to build a storehouse of memories that will one day make high school hard to leave.

Wing tips, straps, and loafers caught not only the attention and interest of the sophomore class officers, Rick Ryon, treasurer; Scott Burns, vice-president; Emerson Weiss, president; and Mary Jo Gualtieri, secretary; but of every student.

Eleventh Grade

Many exciting events happened during the junior year. These included the fall skating party, receiving class rings, the candy sale, a popcorn sale, and a dance. The money from these activities went towards decorating for the prom which tied up the year's events.

Senior Class

Now that a high school diploma is no longer a guarantee of acceptance in the world, many seniors are thinking of some kind of higher education. With this in mind, the last year of high school has become more a time of beginnings than of endings.

The clothing fads of this year are discussed by senior class officers, Mary Lezanic, treasurer; Aleck Moody, president; Cheryl Johnston, secretary; and Cindy Miller, vice-president.

Sarah Work and Susan Hadden served as Marion Center's representatives to the Johnstown Scholastic Quiz. They were also recipients of the National Merit Commendation Award.

Right, A note of sadness is evident as Bryce Griffith and Ken Fairman march from the auditorium in the flower parade.

Below, Mass confusion is displayed as the seniors don their caps and gowns in preparation for the commencement service.

At the Farewell Assembly, Miss Carol Duke presents the eagerly awaited basketball awards to Shirley McCunn, Mary Salerno, Mary Martha Lezanic, Kathy Hamilton, Cheri Dahlin, Sandy Kinter, Karen Smyers, and Cindy Miller.

Above, Mixed emotions are portrayed in the faces of these graduates, Mary Shank and Judy Hastings, after the farewell assembly.

"Never Cling to the Past, But Hold Steadfast to the Future"

The Farewell Assembly was the final triumph of the senior's school career. It marked the completion of twelve years of schooling, filled with joys and fears, achievements and disappointments, and many years of hard work. As the awards were presented and old memories were relived, they were reminded of their years spent in school. As a climax to the assembly, the seniors marched out of the auditorium carrying a white carnation tinted blue.

Below, Seniors cling to their last remembrance, the blue tinted carnation, at their farewell to Marion Center.

Kieft, featured speaker at the graduation ceremony.

At Vesper Service, Sunday, June 1, 1969, the following ministers of area churches were the participants of the service: Rev. Arthur Hayes,
Rev. Olaf Carlsen, Rev. Joseph Brownlee, Rev.
William Miller, and Rev. Douglas M. Carhart.

Final Ceremonies Mark the Beginning

As the seniors attended Vespers and Commencement, they realized it was only a stepping stone into the future. Rather than an end, these two services represented only the beginning for many students. Beside the formal presentation of diplomas, commencement exercises were highlighted by a rendition of "America, the Beautiful" by a combined group of senior band and senior chorus members.

Parents, friends, and faculty are welcomed to the fifty-second annual commencement program by Senior Class President, Aleck Moody.
